

The Alberta Seniors Communities & Housing Association (ASCHA) proudly offers The Learning Centre for Senior Living as a member value-added benefit.

The Learning Centre for Seniors Living is an online learning management system that provides e-learning for front-line employees. It covers all aspects of operations to achieve industry best practices and ensure safe practices.

Employees can access self-directed learning 24/7, or operators can download the training materials for use in a classroom setting.

The multi-level login ability allows administrators to review the overall learning progress of their organizations. Training reports and records of completion can be downloaded or printed directly from the website.

The tutorials are concise to make learning more efficient and are respectful of limited training time. The content has been developed in partnership with industry specific educators, members of seniors living communities and expert organizations to ensure that the information is current and relevant.

An online library is available to each member organization to house their own organizational policies and procedures.

The Learning Centre also has an Operations Manual with a library of over 400 downloadable policies, procedures and forms, and also provides toolkits on a range of topics from Human Resources to Crisis Management.
